ABOUT ANU PRESS

About ANU Press

ANU E Press was established in 2003 to explore the options offered by emerging epublising technology for the University's academic output. At the beginning of 2014, ANU E Press became ANU Press and, at present, our small, committed team has published over 700 titles as ebooks and Print-on-Demand (PoD) books.

Electronic publishing has a lot of advantages over traditional publishing methods: it's inexpensive and rapid, which is particularly valuable in the dissemination of new research and academic exploration. Lowered production costs reduce the pressure to recoup expenses through profits, which allows ANU Press to:

- > give voice to researchers whose work is excellent but may lack a significant commercial audience
- > demolish barriers to entry for developing fields of research that might struggle against traditional, risk-averse publication models
- > publish texts that deal with contemporary issues and breaking research at the height of relevance and public interest
- > maximise the clarity and impact of research data by using meaningful photos, images and graphs without increasing the cost of production.

ANU Press produces fully peer-reviewed research publications and is recognised by the Department of Education and Training as a commercial publisher, so authors who publish through ANU Press gain full recognition under the Higher Education Research Data Collection scheme. As ANU generates more and more original research, ANU Press fulfils the vital role of distributing that research through stylish, well-designed and accessible electronic/PoD texts.

Electronic publishing also has incredible advantages for readers. Ebooks:

- > allow wide dissemination of information at very low cost: a student or researcher can either download or read online any of ANU Press' texts immediately, from anywhere in the world
- > make searching text easy, a huge benefit for researchers and students mining diverse tomes for specific information
- > are environmentally advantageous: lowered need for printing means lowered demand for paper, and electronic formats don't incur the carbon impact of shipping and distribution as do traditional, hard copy formats.

ABOUT ANU PRESS

How to find ANU Press titles

Through our website

It couldn't be easier to get a copy of any of ANU Press's books. All our titles are available through our website, either free to read online or download (in .pdf, .epub or .mobi format) or to purchase in PoD format.

You can search for the appropriate title by name, or browse by Series or Authors & editors by clicking those links, or have a look at our Journals, where you can find a comprehensive backlist of all our previous issues.

Prefer print? All ANU Press titles are available in hard copy. Our distributor produces texts upon request, so if you find a book in our catalogue that you would like in hard copy, please follow these instructions:

- > If you are purchasing a print copy of our books simply click the 'Buy print' button on the relevant book's web page and this will take you to the NewSouth Books website where you can purchase the book.
- > If you are purchasing a journal, these can be ordered through the shopping cart on the ANU Press website. To order a journal simply click the 'Buy print' button and this will take you to the shopping cart where you can fill out your details.

Elsewhere

You can also find our ebooks through Google Scholar and Google Books and our PoD titles through Amazon and any bookstore subscribing to the Global Books in Print bibliographic database. Our complete catalogue is also available through the Thomson Reuters Book Citation Index, JSTOR, the Directory of Open Access Books, eBrary, the Open Access Publishing in European Networks and the National Library of Australia Catalogue.

Information for authors

A comprehensive explanation of ANU Press publishing processes is available on our website (press.anu.edu.au/author-resources) but here's a brief overview:

All proposals need to be submitted to the relevant ANU Press editorial board for evaluation. Once the board is satisfied a manuscript is suitable for publication, they'll arrange peer review (a minimum of two double-blind reports, with at least one sourced from outside ANU). Manuscripts then need to be professionally copyedited and styled before production can begin.

Depending on the manuscript, production takes about three months. At the end of the process, the book is published on the ANU Press website and is available to read online, download as an ebook free of charge or purchase in PoD. We also register your book in a range of databases to make sure it is distributed as widely as possible.

A Difficult Neighbourhood: Essays on Russian and East-Central Europe since World War II

John Besemer

ISBN 9781760460600 (Print) $60.00

ISBN 9781760460617 (Online)

Published October 2016

A Difficult Neighbourhood focuses on Russian and Eastern European interactions, with extensive examination of domestic developments in Russia and some of its neighbours where it is essential to understand the broader picture. The underlying theme that dominates most chapters is Russia's rejection of the break-up of the Soviet Union, its attempts to restore as much as it can of the old Russian Soviet empire, if necessary against the will of the countries and peoples who broke away, and the geopolitical implications of that ambitious endeavour for the Atlantic community.

Through a series of essays on key events in recent years in Russia, the western ex-republics of the USSR and the countries of the one-time Warsaw Pact, John Besemer seeks to illuminate the domestic politics of the most important states, as well as Moscow's relations with all of them. At the outset, he takes some backward glances at the violent suppression of national life in the 'bloodlands' of Europe during World War II by the Stalinist and Nazi regimes, which helps to explain much about the region's dynamics since. His concern throughout is that a large area of Europe with a combined population well in excess of Russia's could again be consigned by the West to Moscow's care, not this time by more and less malign forms of collusion, but by distracted negligence or incomprehension.

“ This is a wonderful collection of essays from a leading Eastern Europe specialist. John Besemer brings a lifetime of experience, profound insights, and an incisive style to subjects ranging from wartime and post-war Poland through contemporary Ukraine to Putin's Russia. At a time when doublespeak has become the new normal, his refreshing honesty has never been in greater need ”

Narrow but Endlessly Deep: The Struggle for Memorialisation in Chile since the Transition to Democracy

Peter Read and Marivic Wyndham

ISBN 9781760460211 (Print) $41.00

ISBN 9781760460228 (Online)

Published June 2016

On 11 September 1973, the Chilean Chief of the Armed Forces Augusto Pinochet overthrew the Popular Unity Government of Salvador Allende and installed a military dictatorship. Yet this is a book not of parties or ideologies but public history. It focuses on the memorials and memorialisers at seven sites of torture, extermination and disappearance in Santiago, engaging with worldwide debates about why and how deeds of violence inflicted by the state on its own citizens should be remembered, and by whom.

The sites investigated — including the infamous National Stadium — are among the most iconic of more than 1,000 such sites throughout the country.

The study grants a glimpse of the depth of feeling that survivors and the families of the detained-disappeared and the politically executed bring to each of the sites. The book traces their struggle to memorialise each one, and so unfolds their idealism and hope, courage and frustration, their hatred, excitement, resentment, sadness, fear, division and disillusionment.

“ This is a beautifully written book, a sensitive treatment of the issues and lives of those who have faced a great deal of loss, most often as unsung heroes, in what are now recognized as Chilean sites of memory. The book is a testament to people who have not been asked to speak, until Peter Read and Marivic Wyndham ask them to tell their stories. They do not shy away from hard tensions about memorialization, the difficulties of challenging a powerful state and the long and arduous struggles to ensure less powerful voices are heard ”

Chair of Political Science, Vassar College, USA.

Brokers and Boundaries: Colonial Exploration in Indigenous Territory

Edited by Tiffany Shellam, Maria Nugent, Shino Konishi and Allison Cadzow

Co-published with Aboriginal History Inc.

ISBN 9781760460112 (Print) $41.00

ISBN 9781760460129 (Online)

Published April 2016

Colonial exploration continues, all too often, to be rendered as heroic narratives of solitary, intrepid explorers and adventurers. This edited collection contributes to scholarship that is challenging that persistent mythology. With a focus on Indigenous brokers, such as guides, assistants and mediators, it highlights the ways in which nineteenth-century exploration in Australia and New Guinea was a collective and socially complex enterprise. Many of the authors provide biographically rich studies that carefully examine and speculate about Indigenous brokers' motivations, commitments and desires. All of the chapters in the collection are attentive to the specific local circumstances as well as broader colonial contexts in which exploration and encounters occurred.

“ This collection breaks new ground in its emphasis on Indigenous agency and Indigenous–explorer interactions. It will be of value to historians and others for a very long time ”

— Professor Ann Curthoys, University of Sydney

“ In bringing together this group of authors, the editors have brought to histories of colonialism the individuality of these intermediaries, whose lives intersected colonial exploration in Australia and New Guinea ”

— Dr Jude Philp, Macleay Museum

The Bionarrative: The Story of Life and Hope for the Future

Stephen Boyden

ISBN 9781760460501 (Print) $38.00

ISBN 9781760460518 (Online)

Published August 2016

The Bionarrative, written by human ecologist Professor Stephen Boyden, presents a very brief version of the story of life on Earth. The recent emergence of humankind and of human civilisation is an integral and vitally important part of this story.

The book discusses the evolution of life and the essential ecological processes on which all life, including human civilisation, depend. It describes the conditions of life and ecology of humans in the four ecological phases in human history, with emphasis on the impacts of human culture on biological systems.

The Bionarrative is for the general reader who is interested in the human place in nature and the future of civilisation. It is based on the biohistorical approach to the study of human situations. This approach recognises human culture as a new and extremely important force in the biosphere.

The days of the fourth ecological phase of human history, the Exponential Phase, are numbered. Cultural maladaptations are now on a massive scale, and business as usual will inevitably lead to the ecological collapse of civilisation. The only hope for the survival of civilisation lies in radical changes in the worldviews and priorities of the prevailing cultures of the world, leading to a fifth ecological phase — a phase in which human society is truly sensitive to, in tune with and respectful of the processes of life. This is called a biosensitive society. The Bionarrative examines how the world came to be what it is today and concludes with discussion on the essential characteristics of a biosensitive society and on the means by which the necessary cultural transformation might come about.

Australia Goes to Washington: 75 Years of Australian Representation in the United States, 1940–2015

Edited by David Lowe, David Lee and Carl Bridge

ISBN 9781760460785 (Print) $50.00

ISBN 9781760460792 (Online)

Published December 2016

The year 2015 marked the 75th anniversary of Australian diplomatic representation in Washington. Australia Goes to Washington: 75 years of Australian Representation in the United States, 1940–2015 brings together expert analyses of those who have served as heads of mission and the challenges they have faced. It examines the strengthening relationship, crises and changing priorities as experienced by Australia's Ambassadors and leading diplomats in Washington during this period, and the influence they had on the development and implementation of Australian foreign policy.

Providing insight from three of Australia's leading historians, David Lowe, Carl Bridge and David Lee, and a concluding perspective paper by former Australian Ambassador Kim Beazley AC, this book provides an appreciation of the importance of the embassy and the head of mission in Washington in mediating the relationship between Australia and the United States and of their role in managing expectations in Canberra and Washington.

Since 1940, when an Australian legation was established in Washington DC, Australian governments have expected much from their representatives in the American capital. This book brings together expert analyses of those who have served as heads of mission and of the challenges they have faced. Ranging beyond conventional studies of the Australian–United States relationship, it provides insights into the dynamics between Australian and US policymakers and into the culture of one of Australia's oldest and most important overseas missions. It provides an appreciation of the importance of the embassy and the head of mission in Washington in mediating the relationship between Australia and the United States and of their role in managing expectations in Canberra and Washington. Australia Goes to Washington also sheds new light on personal trials and achievements at the coalface of Australian–United States relations.

New Mana: Transformations of a Classic Concept in Pacific Languages and Cultures

Edited by Matt Tomlinson and Ty P. Kawika Tengan

Monographs in Anthropology Series

ISBN 9781760460075 (Print) $51.00

ISBN 9781760460082 (Online)

Published April 2016

'Mana', a term denoting spiritual power, is found in many Pacific Islands languages. In recent decades, the term has been taken up in New Age movements and online fantasy gaming. In this book, 16 contributors examine mana through ethnographic, linguistic and historical lenses to understand its transformations past and present. The authors consider a range of contexts including Indigenous sovereignty movements, Christian missions and Bible translations, the commodification of cultural heritage, and the dynamics of diaspora. Their investigations move across diverse island groups—Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, Vanuatu, Fiji, Tonga, Samoa, Hawai'i and French Polynesia—and into Australia, North America and even cyberspace. A key insight that the volume develops is that mana can be analysed most productively by paying close attention to its ethical and aesthetic dimensions.

Since the late nineteenth century, mana has been an object of intense scholarly interest. Writers in many fields including anthropology, linguistics, history, religion, philosophy and missiology have long debated how the term should best be understood. The authors in this volume review mana's complex intellectual history but also describe the remarkable transformations going on in the present day as scholars, activists, church leaders, artists, and entrepreneurs take up mana in new ways.

Learning from Agri-environment Schemes in Australia: Investing in Biodiversity and Other Ecosystem Services on Farms

Edited by Dean Ansell, Fiona Gibson and David Salt

ISBN 9781760460150 (Print) $51.00

ISBN 9781760460167 (Online)

Published May 2016

Learning from agri-environment schemes in Australia is a book about the birds and the beef — more specifically it is about the billions of dollars that governments pay farmers around the world each year to protect and restore biodiversity. After more than two decades of these schemes in Australia, what have we learnt? Are we getting the most out of these investments, and how should we do things differently in the future? Involving contributions from ecologists, economists, social scientists, restoration practitioners and policymakers, this book provides short, engaging chapters that cover a wide spectrum of environmental, agricultural and social issues involved in agri-environment schemes.

Few other environmental management issues warrant a multidisciplinary approach as much as that of investment in public benefits on private land. Research has shown, however, that evaluation typically lacks integration between the disciplines. This book contains contributions not only from different scientific disciplines, but also from the perspectives of land managers and policymakers. These expert contributors have combined research findings from their individual disciplines to produce this reference that is essential reading for anyone working in the field of agri-environment investment.

Connected and Disconnected in Viet Nam: Remaking Social Relations in a Post-socialist Nation

Edited by Philip Taylor

Vietnam Series

ISBN 9781925022926 (Print) $50.00

ISBN 9781760460006 (Online)

Published March 2016

Vietnam's shift to a market-based society has brought about profound realignments in its people's relations with each other. As the nation continues its retreat from the legacies of war and socialism, significant social rifts have emerged that divide citizens by class, region and ethnicity. By drawing on social connections as a traditional resource, Vietnamese are able to accumulate wealth, overcome marginalisation and achieve social mobility. However, such relationship-building strategies are also fraught with peril for they have the potential to entrench pre-existing social divisions and lead to new forms of disconnectedness.

Connected and Disconnected in Viet Nam examines the dynamics of connection and disconnection in the lives of contemporary Vietnamese. It features 11 chapters by anthropologists who draw upon research in both highland and lowland contexts to shed light on social capital disparities, migration inequalities and the benefits and perils of gift exchange. The authors investigate ethnic minority networks, the politics of poverty, patriotic citizenship, and the 'heritagisation' of culture. Tracing shifts in how Vietnamese people relate to their consociates and others, the chapters elucidate the social legacies of socialism, nation-building and the transition to a globalised market-based economy. With compelling case studies and including many previously unheard perspectives, this book offers original insights into social ties and divisions among the modern Vietnamese.

China's New Sources of Economic Growth, Vol. 1: Reform, Resources and Climate Change

Edited by Ligang Song, Ross Garnaut, Cai Fang and Lauren Johnston

China Update Series

ISBN 9781760460341 (Print) $75.00

ISBN 9781760460358 (Online)

Published July 2016

China's change to a new model of growth, now called the 'new normal', was always going to be hard. Events over the past year show how hard it is. The attempts to moderate the extremes of high investment and low consumption, the correction of overcapacity in the heavy industries that were the mainstays of the old model of growth, the hauling in of the immense debt hangover from the fiscal and monetary expansion that pulled China out of the Great Crash of 2008 would all have been hard at any time. They are harder when changes in economic policy and structure coincide with stagnation in global trade and rising protectionist sentiment in developed countries, extraordinarily rapid demographic change and recognition of the urgency of easing the environmental damage from the old model. China's economy has slowed and there are worries that the authorities will not be able to contain the slowdown within preferred limits.

The 2016 China Update explores the challenge of the slowdown in growth and the change in economic structure. Leading experts on China's economy and environment review change within China's new model of growth, and its interaction with ageing, environmental pressure, new patterns of urbanisation and debt problems at different levels of government. It illuminates some new developments in China's economy, including the transformational potential of internet banking, and the dynamics of financial market instability. China's economic development since 1978 is full of exciting change, and the 2016 China Update is again the way to know it as it is happening.

Confronting Fiji Futures

Edited by A. Haroon Akram-Lodhi

ISBN 9781921934292 (Print) $38.00

ISBN 9781921934308 (Online)

Fiji, post-independence, has seen several governments, two military coups and, amidst sweeping social, economic and political changes, the presence of divisive identity politics in its journey towards a united, collective Fiji community.

This republished edition of Confronting Fiji Futures takes in these landmark events and eventualities, and aims at a forward-looking assessment of the realities facing Fiji in the present and the future. It focuses on the period of the coups up to and including the 1999 general elections, when an explicitly multiethnic party won government in a surprise landslide result.

This book is the result of a collaborative research project based at the Institute of Social Studies, The Hague, in the Netherlands — an institution with a long tradition of collaborative teaching, research and advisory services in the South Pacific region.

The Fijian Colonial Experience: A Study of the Neotraditional Order under British Colonial Rule Prior to World War II

Timothy J. Macnaught

ISBN 9781921934353 (Print) $40.00

ISBN 9781921934360 (Online)

Indigenous Fijians were singularly fortunate in having a colonial administration that halted the alienation of communally owned land to foreign settlers and that, almost for a century, administered their affairs in their own language and through culturally congenial authority structures and institutions. From the outset, the Fijian Administration was criticised as paternalistic and stifling of individualism. But for all its problems it sustained, at least until World War II, a vigorously autonomous and peaceful social and political world in quite affluent subsistence — underpinning the celebrated exuberance of the culture exploited by the travel industry ever since.

Pacific Islanders Under German Rule: A Study in the Meaning of Colonial Resistance

Peter J. Hemenstall

ISBN 9781921934315 (Print) $43.00

ISBN 9781921934322 (Online)

This important book is a reprint of the first detailed study of how Pacific Islanders responded politically and economically to their rulers across the German empire of the Pacific. Under one cover, it captures the variety of interactions between the various German colonial administrations, with their separate approaches, and the leaders and people of Samoa in Polynesia, the major island centre of Pohnpei in Micronesia and the indigenes of New Guinea. Drawing on anthropology, new Pacific history insights and a range of theoretical works on African and Asian resistance from the 1960s and 1970s, it reveals the complexities of Islander reactions and the nature of protests against German imperial rule. It casts aside old assumptions that colonised peoples always resisted European colonisers. Instead, this book argues convincingly that Islander responses were often intelligent and subtle manipulations of their rulers' agendas, their societies dynamic enough to make their own adjustments to the demands of empire. It does not shy away from major blunders by German colonial administrators, nor from the strategic and tactical mistakes of Islander leaders. At the same time, it raises the profile of several large personalities on both sides of the colonial frontier, including Lauaki Namulau'ulu Mamoe and Wilhelm Solf in Samoa; Henry Nanpei, Georg Fritz and Karl Boeder in Pohnpei; or Governor Albert Hahl and Po Minis from Manus Island in New Guinea.

Professional Social Work in Australia

R.J. Lawrence

ISBN 9781921934278 (Print) $38.00

ISBN 9781921934285 (Online)

This is an unchanged republication of the first historical account of the social work profession in Australia. It traces the development of social work education and professional social work in the larger, more industrialised societies overseas before the same developments began in Australia in the late 1920s, and it notes the part played by overseas influence in the subsequent 30-odd years. The book concentrates on the development of training bodies and their courses, the spread of qualified social workers into various fields of employment in Australia's expanding health and welfare services, and the growth of professional associations and their programmes. The author assesses the occupational group in terms of accepted attitudes towards the established professions. He concludes with a discussion of major contemporary issues facing the Australian social work profession.

A Philosophy of Intellectual Property

Peter Drahos

ISBN 9781925022957 (Online)

Are intellectual property rights like other property rights? More and more of the world's knowledge and information is under the control of intellectual property owners. What are the justifications for this? What are the implications for power and for justice of allowing this property form to range across social life? Can we look to traditional property theory to supply the answers or do we need a new approach? Intellectual property rights relate to abstract objects – objects like algorithms and DNA sequences. The consequences of creating property rights in such objects are far-reaching. A Philosophy of Intellectual Property argues that lying at the heart of intellectual property are duty-bearing privileges. We should adopt an instrumentalist approach to intellectual property and reject a proprietarian approach – an approach that emphasises the connection between labour and property rights. The analysis draws on the history of intellectual property, legal materials, the work of Grotius, Pufendorf, Locke, Marx and Hegel, as well as economic, sociological and legal theory. The book is designed to be accessible to specialists in a number of fields as well as students. It will interest philosophers, political scientists, economists and legal scholars, as well as those professionals concerned with policy issues raised by modern technologies and the information society.

Modern Japanese Online: The First Course to Mastering Modern Japanese

Naomi Ogi and Duck-Young Lee

ISBN 9781760460495 (Online)

Modern Japanese Online is designed to provide beginning learners of the Japanese language with a solid base of the major grammar and expressions of Japanese in a flexible electronic mode. With detailed explanations and practical exercises, successful learners will gain quality knowledge of the system of the Japanese language, as well as exceptional skills to deal with a variety of verbal expressions necessary for daily conversations.

The learning objectives have been designed and organised on a step-by-step basis. With detailed explanations and rich exercises, Modern Japanese Online aims at 'easy to use and easy to learn'.

Modern Japanese Online is based on the Grammar and Expressions sections in 日本語がいつぱい Nihongo ga Ippai (published in 2010, by Hituzi Shobo, Tokyo), which is aimed at developing communication skills in terms of grammar, expressions, natural conversation notes, creative dialogues, and cultural notes. Since Modern Japanese Online mainly focuses on the grammar and expressions, it is recommended that learners use this eText in conjunction with 日本語がいつぱい for comprehensive study of Japanese.

Reading Embraced by Australia: Hiroshima Modules 1 and 2

Carol Hayes and Yuki Itani-Adams

ISBN 9781760460969 (Online)

Hiroshima Modules 1 and 2 provide a first-hand account of surviving Hiroshima's atomic bomb. This eText is the first volume of an advanced Japanese language comprehension series aimed firstly at improving Japanese language skills, and secondly at introducing readers to a first-hand account of Australia and Japan's shared WWII and post-WWII history. Made up of two modules, this eText includes audio recordings of the text, movie files of recorded interviews with Teruko Blair and interactive comprehension quiz questions to help readers engage with the Japanese text.

The story is drawn from war bride and Hiroshima survivor Mrs Teruko Blair's 1991 Japanese memoir, Embraced by Australia (『オーストラリアに抱かれて』), published by Asahi TV Press.

Hiroshima Modules 1 and 2 take readers on a journey behind the eyes of then 20-year-old Teruko. Module 1 covers only a few days in Teruko's life, in the lead up to the bombing, the horrific impact of the bomb and how she and her family just managed to escape the black rain. Module 2 continues on from Module 1, describing how Teruko and her family survived by managing to escape across the Ōta River to a friend's farm. The story ends with the survival of all four children and both their parents, which is nothing short of miraculous.
