ABOUT ANU PRESS

ANU Press is a globally recognised leader in open-access academic publishing. We produce fully peer-reviewed monographs and journals across a wide range of subject areas, with a special focus on Australian and international policy, Indigenous studies and the Asia Pacific region. Our open-access publishing practices ensure our publications are available to a worldwide audience, which includes those who are otherwise unable to access quality academia due to a lack of resources. In 2017, we achieved the significant milestone of over 2 million downloads, comprising readers from almost every country in the world.

Originally known as ANU E Press, the Press was established in 2003 to explore the options offered by emerging publishing technology for The Australian National University's academic output. At the beginning of 2014, ANU E Press became ANU Press and, at present, our small, committed team has published over 750 titles as ebooks and Print-on-Demand (PoD) books.

Electronic publishing has many advantages over traditional publishing methods: it's inexpensive and rapid, which is particularly valuable in the dissemination of new research and academic exploration. Lowered production costs reduce the pressure to recoup expenses through profits, which allows ANU Press to:

- > give voice to researchers whose work is excellent but may lack a significant commercial audience
- > demolish barriers to entry for developing fields of research that might struggle against traditional, risk-averse publication models
- > publish texts that deal with contemporary issues and breaking research at the height of relevance and public interest
- > maximise the clarity and impact of research data by using meaningful photos, images and graphs without increasing the cost of production.

In keeping with the strategic goals of The Australian National University, our focus is on contributing to global research, teaching and learning. To that end, all ANU Press publications are made freely available through our website in a variety of electronic formats to encourage greater dissemination and uptake. Students and researchers can either download or read online any of ANU Press' texts immediately, from anywhere in the world.

Electronic publishing has other advantages for readers. Ebooks:

- > make searching text easy, a huge benefit for researchers and students mining diverse tomes for specific information
- > are environmentally advantageous: lowered need for printing means lowered demand for paper, and electronic formats don't incur the carbon impact of shipping and distribution as do traditional, hard copy formats.

ANU Press is recognised by the Department of Education and Training as a commercial publisher, so authors who publish through ANU Press gain full recognition under the Higher Education Research Data Collection scheme.

How to find ANU Press titles

Through our website

It couldn't be easier to get a copy of any of ANU Press' books. All our titles are available through our website, where you can read them online, download a free digital copy (in .pdf, .epub or .mobi format) or purchase a hard copy. To find a specific title you can search for it by name, or you can browse our collection by Series or Authors & editors by clicking the relevant links. A comprehensive backlist of all our journal issues is also available under the Journals section.

Prefer print? All ANU Press titles are available in hard copy. Texts are produced upon request, so if you find a book in our catalogue that you would like in hard copy, please follow these instructions:

- > Print copies of our books are purchased online through our distributor NewSouth Books. To order a book simply click the 'Buy print' button on the relevant book page and this will take you to the NewSouth Books website where you can purchase the book. If you experience difficulties please contact NewSouth Books directly on (02) 8778 9999 or email marketing@newsouthbooks.com.au
- > Print copies of our journals can be ordered through the shopping cart on the ANU Press website. To order a journal simply click the 'Buy print' button on the relevant journal page and this will take you to the shopping cart where you can fill out your details. If you experience difficulties please contact ANU Press on (02) 6125 0262 or email anupress@anu.edu.au

Elsewhere

You can also find our ebooks through Google Scholar and Google Books and our PoD titles through Amazon and any bookstore subscribing to the Global Books in Print bibliographic database.

Library records

Our complete catalogue is available through the Thomson Reuters Book Citation Index, JSTOR, the Directory of Open Access Books, eBrary, the Open Access Publishing in European Networks and the National Library of Australia Catalogue. Complete sets of MARC records for ANU Press titles are also available from library-admin.anu.edu.au/epubs/epress/marc/

Information for authors

A comprehensive explanation of ANU Press publishing processes is available on our website (press.anu.edu.au/author-resources), but here's a brief overview.

ANU Press refers all proposals to the relevant editorial board for evaluation. Once the board is satisfied a manuscript is suitable for publication, they arrange for it to be peer reviewed (a minimum of two double-blind reports, with at least one sourced from outside ANU). Manuscripts are then professionally copyedited and styled before production begins.

Depending on the manuscript, production takes about three to four months. At the end of the process, the book is published on the ANU Press website and is available to read online, download as an ebook free of charge or purchase in PoD. We also register your book in a range of databases to make sure it is distributed as widely as possible.

Regulatory Theory: Foundations and Applications

Edited by Peter Drahos

ISBN 9781760461010 (Print) $80.00

ISBN 9781760461027 (Online)

Published February 2017

The Regulatory Institutions Network (RegNet) at The Australian National University has been a leader in the development of new ideas and approaches to the study of regulation for 15 years. Regulatory Theory: Foundations and Applications brings together more than 40 scholars who have been associated with RegNet during this time. Each author deals with a core concept and/or field of regulation describing its evolution, analysing its assumptions and problems, and identifying ways in which regulatory theory might be advanced. The book's coverage includes the social psychological foundations of regulation, theories of regulation such as responsive regulation, smart regulation and nodal governance, compliance, legal pluralism, risk, accountability, globalisation and regulatory capitalism, as well as analyses of various fields of regulation including environment, crime, human rights, investment, migration and tax.

Regulatory Theory is the first ANU Press title that features an interactive contents page. It divides chapters into key theories, concepts, methods and psychological foundations, which enables readers to navigate to chapters in their area of interest or to find key readings in regulatory theory.

This volume introduces readers to regulatory theory. Aimed at practitioners, postgraduate students and those interested in regulation as a cross-cutting theme in the social sciences, Regulatory Theory includes chapters on the social-psychological foundations of regulation as well as theories of regulation such as responsive regulation, smart regulation and nodal governance. The contributors, who either are or have been connected to the Regulatory Institutions Network (RegNet) at The Australian National University include John Braithwaite, Valerie Braithwaite, Peter Grabosky, Neil Gunningham, Fiona Haines, Terry Halliday, David Levi-Faur, Christine Parker, Colin Scott and Clifford Shearing.

Ten Thousand Years of Cultivation at Kuk Swamp in the Highlands of Papua New Guinea

Edited by Jack Golson, Tim Denham, Philip Hughes, Pamela Swadling and John Muke

Terra Australis 46

ISBN 9781760461157 (Print) $75.00

ISBN 9781760461164 (Online)

Published July 2017

Part of the acclaimed Terra Australis series, Ten Thousand Years of Cultivation at Kuk Swamp in the Highlands of Papua New Guinea offers a comprehensive account of the history, aims, methods and results of the work undertaken at the Kuk Research Station. The establishment of Kuk Research Station and the intensive work done there in the decades since have provided major contributions towards understanding the emergence and early development of agriculture.

The significance of this book is not limited to the environmental and socioeconomic particularities of the New Guinea highlands, nor even to the wider regional context of Southeast Asia and the Pacific. The discoveries made in this complex area of valleys and basins have worldwide relevance to the study of agricultural origins, particularly in the tropics, and to advancing our understanding of human prehistory overall.

“ Ten Thousand Years of Cultivation is an outstanding example of multidisciplinary research and a celebration of the contribution of Papua New Guinea to world history ”

— J. Peter White, University of Sydney.
Review in Archaeology in Oceania, 2017.

New Directions for Law in Australia: Essays in Contemporary Law

Edited by Ron Levy, Molly O'Brien, Simon Rice, Pauline Ridge and Margaret Thornton

ISBN 9781760461416 (Print) $75.00

ISBN 9781760461423 (Online)

Published September 2017

For reasons of effectiveness, efficiency and equity, Australian law reform should be planned carefully. Academics can and should take the lead in this process. This book collects over 50 discrete law reform recommendations, encapsulated in short, digestible essays written by leading Australian scholars. It emerges from a major conference held at The Australian National University in 2016, which featured intensive discussion among participants from government, practice and the academy. The book is intended to serve as a national focal point for Australian legal innovation. It is divided into six main parts: commercial and corporate law, criminal law and evidence, environmental law, private law, public law, and legal practice and legal education. In addition, Indigenous perspectives on law reform are embedded throughout each part. This collective work—the first of its kind—will be of value to policy makers, media, law reform agencies, academics, practitioners and the judiciary. It provides a bird's eye view of the current state and the future of law reform in Australia.

Academic lawyers in Australia have long played a vital role in the national project of law reform. They thought about it; they wrote about it; they worried about its haphazard ways; and they taught their students, and others who would listen, about the need for a more systematic and effective approach to the challenge.

This book shows that the involvement of Australia's legal scholars in issues of law reform continues.

Grappling with the Bomb: Britain's Pacific H-bomb Tests

Nic Maclellan

ISBN 9781760461379 (Print) $55.00

ISBN 9781760461386 (Online)

Published September 2017

Grappling with the Bomb is a history of Britain's 1950s program to test the hydrogen bomb, code name Operation Grapple. In 1957–58, nine atmospheric nuclear tests were held at Malden Island and Christmas Island—today, part of the Pacific nation of Kiribati. Nearly 14,000 troops travelled to the central Pacific for the UK nuclear testing program—many are still living with the health and environmental consequences.

Based on archival research and interviews with nuclear survivors, Grappling with the Bomb presents i-Kiribati woman Sui Kiritome, British pacifist Harold Steele, businessman James Burns, Fijian sailor Paul Ah Poy, English volunteers Mary and Billie Burgess and first-hand interviews with the ageing survivors who witnessed the British hydrogen bomb tests.

Some historians quibble about the value of personal reminiscences, given the fallibility of memory and our common tendency to exaggeration. But personal testimony and memoir can capture the lived experience of the time and breathe life into the archives. On a topic like nuclear strategy, the bureaucratic language of the written record tends to mute the reality of thermonuclear terror that is the essence of nuclear weaponry.

Learning from Fukushima: Nuclear Power in East Asia

Edited by Peter Van Ness and Mel Gurtov

ISBN 9781760461393 (Print) $55.00

ISBN 9781760461409 (Online)

Published September 2017

Learning from Fukushima began as a project to respond in a helpful way to the March 2011 triple disaster (earthquake, tsunami, and nuclear meltdown) in northeastern Japan. It evolved into a collaborative and comprehensive investigation of whether nuclear power was a realistic energy option for East Asia, especially for the 10 member-countries of ASEAN, none of which currently has an operational nuclear power plant.

In this collection, scholars critically investigate the costs and benefits of building nuclear power plants, drawing on comprehensive databases on nuclear power as well as research conducted in the wake of the 2011 Fukushima meltdown. The volume contains separate case studies on Japan, China, South Korea, Taiwan and ASEAN, and the exceptional case of France where almost 75 per cent of electrical power is nuclear. There are detailed examinations of the decommissioning problem, the role of government subsidies, the health implications of exposure to radiation and renewables as an energy alternative.

Learning from Fukushima aims to counter the misinformation, and even disinformation, that sometimes characterise debates about nuclear power, offering an empirically based assessment of the role of nuclear power in East Asia.

Exploring the Earth under the Sea: Australian and New Zealand Achievements in the First Phase of IODP Scientific Ocean Drilling, 2008–2013

Edited by Neville Exon

ISBN 9781760461454 (Print) $58.00

ISBN 9781760461461 (Online)

Published October 2017

Exploring the Earth under the Sea brings to life the world's largest and longest-lived geological research program, which has been drilling over many decades at many locations deep below the ocean floor to recover continuous cores of sediment and rock. Study of these materials has helped us understand how the Earth works now, how it has worked in the past and how it may work in the future. The cores are a wonderful source of information on the dynamic processes that form and reform the Earth, both beneath the ocean and on land. The results have revealed climate and oceanographic change on different time frames, the history of life in the sea and on land including global mass extinctions, the extraordinary story of the great masses of 'extremophile' microbes that live beneath the sea bed, the nature of the giant earthquakes and tsunami generated at the trenches where tectonic plates collide, and the nature of submarine volcanoes and metalliferous deposits.

This book outlines the technology and enduring international partnerships that underlie the scientific ocean drilling accomplished by the first phase of IODP, currently involving 23 countries. It highlights the important role of Australian and New Zealand scientists in the program, and the great scientific benefits we have derived from our partnership since joining IODP in 2008. As well as the scientific summaries, there are personal accounts by shipboard scientists of how they found life at sea on two-month expeditions, working 12-hour shifts on a noisy drill ship.

Tax, Social Policy and Gender: Rethinking Equality and Efficiency

Edited by Miranda Stewart

ISBN 9781760461478 (Print) $58.00

ISBN 9781760461485 (Online)

Published November 2017

Gender inequality is profoundly unjust and in clear contradiction to the philosophy of the 'fair go'. In spite of some action by recent governments, Australia has fallen behind in policy and outcomes, even as the G20 group of nations, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development and the International Monetary Fund are paying renewed attention to gender inequality.

Tax, Social Policy and Gender presents new research on entrenched gender inequality in a comparative framework of human rights and fiscal sustainability. Ground-breaking empirical studies examine unequal returns to education for women and men, decision-making about child care by fathers and mothers, the history and gendered effects of the income tax and family payments, and women in the top 1 per cent. Contributors demonstrate how Australia's tax, social security, child care, parental leave, education, work and retirement income policies intersect to compound gender inequality.

With the issue of gender equality at the forefront of current debate and with wide public and policy interest, Tax, Social Policy and Gender calls for a rethinking of equality and efficiency in tax and social policy and provides new policy solutions. It offers a pathway to achieve gender mainstreaming for women's economic security and the well-being of all Australians.

This book is timely as gender inequality in wage, outcomes, leadership and retirement savings is being extensively and publicly critiqued and debated.

Teaching 'Proper' Drinking?: Clubs and Pubs in Indigenous Australia

Maggie Brady

CAEPR Research Monograph No. 39

ISBN 9781760461577 (Print) $55.00

ISBN 9781760461584 (Online)

Published December 2017

In Teaching 'Proper' Drinking?, the author brings together three fields of scholarship: socio-historical studies of alcohol, Australian Indigenous policy history and social enterprise studies. The case studies in the book offer the first detailed surveys of efforts to teach responsible drinking practices to Aboriginal people by installing canteens in remote communities, and of the purchase of public hotels by Indigenous groups in attempts both to control sales of alcohol and to create social enterprises by redistributing profits for the community good. Ethnographies of the hotels are examined through the analytical lens of the Swedish 'Gothenburg' system of municipal hotel ownership.

The research reveals that the community governance of such social enterprises is not purely a matter of good administration or compliance with the relevant liquor legislation. Their administration is imbued with the additional challenges posed by political contestation, both within and beyond the communities concerned.

‘ The idea that community or government ownership and management of a hotel or other drinking place would be a good way to control drinking and limit harm has been commonplace in many Anglophone and Nordic countries, but has been less recognised in Australia. Maggie Brady’s book brings together the hidden history of such ideas and initiatives in Australia ... In an original and wide-ranging set of case studies, Brady shows that success in reducing harm has varied between communities, largely depending on whether motivations to raise revenue or to reduce harm are in control ’

— Professor Robin Room, Director, Centre for Alcohol Policy Research, La Trobe University.

A Long Way to Go: Irregular Migration Patterns, Processes, Drivers and Decision-making

Edited by Marie McAuliffe and Khalid Koser

ISBN 9781760461775 (Print) $65.00

ISBN 9781760461782 (Online)

Published December 2017

A Long Way to Go presents the findings of a unique migration research program harnessing work of some of the leading international and Australian migration researchers on the challenging and complex topic of irregular maritime migration. The book brings together selected findings of the research program, and in doing so it contributes to the ongoing academic and policy discourses by providing findings from rigorous quantitative, qualitative and mixed methods research to support a better understanding of the dynamics of irregular migration and their potential policy implications.

Stemming from the 2012 Expert Panel on Asylum Seekers report, the Irregular Migration Research Program commissioned 26 international research projects involving 17 academic principal researchers, along with private sector specialist researchers, international organisations and policy think tanks. The centrepiece of the research program was a multi-year collaborative partnership between the Department of Immigration and Border Protection and The Australian National University's Crawford School of Public Policy. Under this partnership, empirical research on international irregular migration was commissioned from migration researchers in Australia, Indonesia, Iran, the Netherlands, Sri Lanka and Switzerland.

About ANU eView

ANU eView is the University's open-access electronic imprint for non-refereed original work. ANU eView launched in 2009 as an outlet for fantastic undergraduate student research from ANU students, and also publishes symposium proceedings, collections of lectures, and other ANU research. ANU eView distributes its publications as ebooks and as Print-on-Demand (PoD) paperbacks through press.anu.edu.au.

ANU eView is always looking for new, high-quality student writing from ANU students, as well as scholarly works from ANU academics. If you're interested in publishing with ANU eView, please contact us at anupress@anu.edu.au.

Navigating Boundaries: The Asian Diaspora in Torres Strait

Edited by Anna Shnukal, Guy Ramsey and Yuriko Nagata

ISBN 9781921934377 (Print) $50.00

ISBN 9781921934384 (Online)

Navigating Boundaries belongs to a new generation of Asian–Australian historical studies. The essays presented here draw on an extensive, widely dispersed body of information, including much unpublished material, in order to narrate stories of the Asian diaspora communities of Torres Strait, north Queensland. Early chapters give an overview of Torres Strait Islander/Asian/European interaction, documenting the experiences of people from the five major Asian communities in the Torres Strait: Chinese, Filipino, Indonesian, Japanese and Sri Lankan. Later chapters inspect the early authorities of Torres Strait, including the former Resident Magistrate and the Protector of Aboriginals. Other chapters examine the contributions to Torres Strait culture made by Asian communities—from ethnic identity, clothing and cuisine, to religion, funeral and burial practices, and with a strong focus on the rich musical culture of Torres Strait Islanders. In the final chapter of the book, a variety of local voices narrate stories of Torres Strait people of Asian ancestry, providing a deeply personal insight into the Asian experience in Torres Strait.

Researching Functional Ecology in Kosciuszko National Park

Edited by Hannah Zurcher, Ming-Dao Chia, Michael Whitehead and Adrienne Nicotra

ISBN 9781921934391 (Print) $45.00

ISBN 9781921934407 (Online)

Take 30 undergraduates and 20 experts from the Research School of Biology at The Australian National University, and put them together for 10 days in the high-altitude environment of Kosciuszko National Park in the Australian Alps. Challenge them to first identify research questions of potential importance to the survival of one of Australia's unique ecosystems under threat from climate change, and then to answer those questions in scientifically rigorous and competent ways.

The successful outcomes of this challenge are evidenced in this volume of selected and fully peer-reviewed papers. They are all written by students who—after intense pre-field preparation—isolated intriguing research questions, postulated hypotheses, collected and analysed data, and interpreted their findings in the context of functional ecology theoretical frameworks and empirical evidence in the scientific literature. The experts acted as guides and supporters rather than lead researchers, so that the students—most of whom were at the end of their first year of studies—were all tasked with fully realising the concept of self-actuated research.

This book has much to offer ecologists, plant and animal scientists, protected area managers and anyone else interested in knowing more about the species of Kosciuszko National Park and how they live, survive, behave and interact. This book is also a showcase of just how much can be accomplished by bright and enthusiastic students who are trusted and guided to use their scientific and ecological knowledge and skills immediately. Much of the knowledge made available in these papers would simply not have seen the light of day except for this innovative intensive approach to research-based education. It is reassuring to know that the future of ecological research is in such capable hearts and minds!

About ANU eText

In 2013, ANU Press launched its newest imprint, ANU eText. ANU eText is the open-access option for ANU academics looking to develop and distribute their textbooks. As part of the University's ongoing commitment to open access, ANU eText allows distribution of textbooks through .pdf, .epub and .mobi formats for free download and reading online.

ANU eText is always looking for new, high-quality textbooks from ANU academics. If you're an ANU academic interested in publishing through ANU eText, or if you have any enquiries about ANU eText, please contact us at anupress@anu.edu.au.

The Joy of Sanskrit: A First-year Syllabus for Tertiary Students

McComas Taylor and Grazia Scotellaro

ISBN 9781925021554 (Online)

The Joy of Sanskrit is a complete first-year course of 25 weeks designed for university students. We teach Sanskrit as a living tradition. As a living tradition, we believe that the reception of language (especially the ability to read) should be balanced with its production (writing, speaking, chanting and singing). By the end of the course, you will be able to conduct a coherent conversation on a range of simple topics, you will be able to chant accurately 26 well-known verses, and you will have a good grasp of all the most common grammatical forms, so that you are ready to begin reading simple narratives.
