About Us

ANU Press is a globally recognised leader in open-access academic publishing. As Australia's first open-access university press, it prides itself on its innovation in the area of open-access scholarship.

ANU Press authors publish peer-reviewed research on a broad range of topics including Asia and Pacific studies, Australian politics, humanities, arts, Indigenous studies and science. To date, ANU Press has published over 990 publications, all of which are freely available to download, and paperbacks can also be purchased via our website.

ANU Press produces fully peer-reviewed research publications and is recognised by the Department of Education and Training as a commercial publisher, so authors who publish through ANU Press gain full recognition under the Higher Education Research Data Collection scheme. ANU Press fulfils the vital role of distributing important academic research through sleek, well-designed and accessible texts.

Open-access publishing is incredibly advantageous to both authors and readers. Benefits of publishing with ANU Press include:

- Worldwide dissemination of research in multiple formats: our books and journals reached over 238 territories and 9,356 institutions across the globe in 2021.
- Inclusion in reading lists: as our books are free to read and download, universities across the world, and particularly in developing areas, assign ANU Press books as mandatory texts for their students.
- High visibility and greater impact: partnerships with third-party distributors and comprehensive metadata mean that our books are highly ranked in global search engines. Open texts also means readers can search within the publication, not just the metadata of the book.
- Widespread international PR coverage in both traditional and new media outlets and reviews in prestigious academic journals, along with strategic organic and paid digital marketing activities.

Information for authors

A comprehensive guide of ANU Press publishing processes is available on our website, but here's a brief overview:

- Manuscripts submitted to ANU Press are evaluated by the relevant, discipline-specific editorial board for suitability and value.
- If the proposal is considered appropriate, the board will arrange peer review by at least two independent reviewers.
- Where necessary, the author makes changes to the manuscript as recommended by reviewers; the board approves the proposal for publication after reviewing changes.
- The manuscript is professionally copyedited and styled and then sent to the ANU Press team to begin the in-house production stages.
- In-house production takes about six months, at the end of this process the book is published as an open-access electronic publication and is also made available as a hard copy to purchase.

Delve into our catalogue

Our books offer readers originality, enduring worth and value. Our peer-review process ensures substantial contribution to scholarship, fitness for purpose, structural soundness and clarity of style and expression. Our books are widely read and purchased by leading universities globally. Timely and relevant research by world-class academics ensures ANU Press books are a valuable part of library collections.

Sound Citizens: Australian Women Broadcasters Claim their Voice, 1923–1956

Catherine Fisher

196 pp | 234x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464301 (Print) $50.00
ISBN 9781760464318 (Online)

‘[Radio] was key to the legitimization of women’s voices in the public sphere more broadly. We continue to benefit from their work today as we raise our voices for justice and equality.’

Catherine Fisher

In 1954 Dame Enid Lyons, the first woman elected to the Australian House of Representatives, argued that radio had ‘created a bigger revolution in the life of a woman than anything that has happened any time’ as it brought the public sphere into the home and women into the public sphere. Taking this claim as its starting point, Sound Citizens examines how a cohort of professional women broadcasters, activists and politicians used radio to contribute to the public sphere and improve women’s status in Australia from the introduction of radio in 1923 until the introduction of television in 1956. This book reveals a much broader and more complex history of women’s contributions to Australian broadcasting than has been previously acknowledged.

Using a rich archive of radio magazines, station archives, scripts, personal papers and surviving recordings, Sound Citizens traces how women broadcasters used radio as a tool for their advocacy; radio’s significance to the history of women’s advancement; and how broadcasting was used in the development of women’s citizenship in Australia. It argues that women broadcasters saw radio as a medium that had the potential to transform women’s lives and status in society, and that they worked to both claim their own voices in the public sphere and to encourage other women to become active citizens. Radio provided a platform for women to contribute to public discourse and normalised the presence of women’s voices in the public sphere, both literally and figuratively.

Like Fire: The Paliau Movement and Millenarianism in Melanesia

Theodore Schwartz and Michael French Smith

Monographs in Anthropology Series

'Like Fire consummates remarkable longitudinal ethnographic research on the Paliau Movement in Papua New Guinea ... Like Fire poses important questions about the driving forces and contours of Pacific Island history and the place in it of cargo cults and other millenarian movements.'

Aletta Biersack, Professor Emerita,
University of Oregon

This book provides a history of the Paliau Movement from its early beginnings in 1946 until the recent present. It follows, in particular, the life of its founder and prophet, Paliau Malaot, and places him in the cultural and political context of his time. It engages with other publications on the Paliau movement and with the wider literature on cargo cults and millenarianism and develops a particular theoretical perspective to understand these phenomena.

The early fieldwork of Ted Schwartz, carried out in the early and mid-1950s, provides uniquely detailed information on an indigenous movement for social and cultural change with clear millenarian phases and tendencies. Like Fire brings this material together under a common theoretical framework and discussion that includes ideas and perspectives from later publications by Schwartz, complemented by Smith's reading and input.

The text consummates a research project initiated by Margaret Mead, with Ted Schwartz as her assistant, in the 1950s; perpetuated through Ted Schwartz's research from the 1960s to the 1990s (with Michael French Smith as his sometime assistant); and now updated by Smith's research. This well-written book is highly provocative in its theoretical arguments, and it is sure to serve as a catalyst for future discussion and debate in the foreseeable future.

History Wars: The Peter Ryan – Manning Clark Controversy

Doug Munro

230 pp | 234x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464769 (Print) $55.00
ISBN 9781760464776 (Online)

‘[Munro’s] incisive study of Ryan’s criticism, and of the context in which the Ryan–Clark controversy played out, punctures the myths that have surrounded it and shows us what is important and what is left over: the wreckage of the history wars.’

Patrick Mullins, Inside Story

In 1993, Peter Ryan (1923–2015), the former director of Melbourne University Press (hereafter MUP), launched an out-of-the-blue attack on the work and character of his best-selling author Manning Clark (1915–1991), who had died two-and-a-half years earlier. The assault took place in the September 1993 issue of the conservative monthly journal Quadrant, and it caused quite a stir.

Ryan started in uncompromising fashion: ‘This essay is an overdue axe laid to the stalk of a tall poppy’. In a full-throated assault on Clark as both a person and an historian, Ryan catalogued his victim’s personal faults and indiscretions — the drinking sprees of his earlier days, his neediness, ‘his propensity to strike an attitude’, his ‘humbug’, his unworthy criticisms of others, his indictable offences as an historian and his delinquencies as an MUP author. He then wades into Clark’s six-volume A History of Australia as having the ‘insubstantiality of thistledown’, of being ‘a construct spun from fairy floss’ and adding for good measure that ‘Clark’s literary style was bad to the point of embarrassment’.

In History Wars, Doug Munro forensically examines the right and wrongs of Ryan’s allegations, concluding that Clark was more sinned against than sinning and that Ryan repeatedly misrepresented the situation. More than just telling a story, Munro places the Ryan–Clark controversy within the context of Australia’s History Wars. This book is an illuminating saga of that ongoing contest.

The Genesis of a Policy: Defining and Defending Australia's National Interest in the Asia-Pacific, 1921–57

Honae Cuffe

260 pp | 234x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464684 (Print) $55.00
ISBN 9781760464691 (Online)

'I believe that the narrative presented in my book is valuable as it explores the origins of key issues continuing to inform Australia's approach to world affairs and offers lessons for contemporary challenges gleaned from past failures and successes.'

Honae Cuffe

The years 1921–57 marked a period of immense upheaval for Australia as the nation navigated economic crises, the threat of aggressive Japanese expansion and shifting power distributions. This book offers a reassessment of Australia's foreign policy origins and maturation during these tumultuous years. Successive Australian governments carefully observed these global and regional forces. The policy that developed in response was an integrated one — one that sought to balance Australia's particular geopolitical circumstances with great power relationships and ensure that the nation's trade, security and diplomatic interests were served.

Amid the economic and strategic uncertainty of the interwar years, the Australian government acknowledged the shifting power distributions in the global and Asia-Pacific orders and that neither the policies of Britain nor the US completely served the national interest. The nation, accordingly, sought to intervene within the policies of the great powers to ensure its particular interests were secured. This geopolitically informed, interventionist approach, which had its genesis in the 1930s, is traced throughout the 1940s and 1950s, highlighting Australia's gradual and uneven transition from the British world order to that of the US and the frank assessments made about which relationship best served Australia's interests.

A Dictionary of Vurës, Vanuatu

Catriona Malau

Asia-Pacific Linguistic Series
480 pp | 250x176 mm
ISBN 9781760464608 (Print) $140.00
ISBN 9781760464615 (Online)

This is a trilingual dictionary of Vurës, with meanings provided in both English and Bislama, the national language of Vanuatu. Vurës is an Oceanic language spoken on the island of Vanua Lava in Vanuatu. The dictionary is a companion volume to A Grammar of Vurës, Vanuatu (Malau 2016). There is no established tradition of writing in Vurës and most speakers are not literate in their own language. This dictionary is intended to have a dual purpose: to support the learning of literacy skills in the Vurës community, and as a reference work for linguists.

There are four parts to the dictionary. The main part is the most comprehensive and provides the English and Bislama definitions of Vurës words, as well as example sentences for many of the entries, additional encyclopaedic information, scientific names for identified species, lexical relations, and etymological information for some entries. The dictionary contains approximately 3,500 headwords and has a strong emphasis on flora and fauna with close to a third of the entries belonging to these semantic domains. The dictionary has benefited from collaboration with a marine biologist and botanists, who have provided scientific identifications for named species. The main dictionary is followed by English–Vurës and Bislama–Vurës finderlists. The final part of the dictionary is a thesaurus, in which Vurës words are grouped according to semantic categories. The thesaurus has been included primarily so that it can be used to support teaching of literacy skills and cultural knowledge within the community.

Cooperative Evolution: Reclaiming Darwin's Vision

Christopher Bryant and Valerie A. Brown

250 pp | 234x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464288 (Print) $60.00
ISBN 9781760464295 (Online)

'This book is an engaging new look at ideas about evolution as we know it today. In the hands of two eminent biologists, it presents an approachable yet challenging argument. I heartily recommend it.'

Emeritus Professor Sue Stocklmayer AO, BSc MSc PhD, Centre for the Public Awareness of Science, The Australian National University

The 19th-century emphasis on competition between species in evolution tends to disregard the role of cooperation. Here, the story is retold as a cooperative process, as Darwin first told it. Accepting Darwin's eloquent metaphor of the 'tangled bank' to describe the interdependence of life leads to a new narrative, one that is free from the social interpretations of his own time.

The new narrative draws on sources of knowledge, unimagined in Darwin's day. As well as the recent discoveries in genomics, epigenetics and genetic manipulation, social issues are taken into account and, in particular, the new concept of holobiology, in which all organisms, including humans, are considered as communities of entities interacting at many levels.

Cooperative Evolution attempts to explain how Darwinian evolution by natural selection works, and where it might go next. It tells stories of cooperation between different organisms with different genetic backgrounds and between organisms that share the same genetic heritage. It tells of the origin of modern cells, of multicellular organisms, of symbiosis and of social collaboration. Along the way it explores the crucial influence of human interpretations of natural systems and of solar energy in promoting organisation in the systems through which it flows. Finally, it deals with our own origins and the origins of our social choices.

Politics, Policy and Public Administration in Theory and Practice: Essays in Honour of John Wanna

Edited by Andrew Podger, Michael de Percy and Sam Vincent

ANZSOG Series
438 pp | 234x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464363 (Print) $70.00
ISBN 9781760464370 (Online)

‘It is fitting that the final book in ANU Press’s series for the Australia and New Zealand School of Government commemorates the work of Emeritus Professor John Wanna who initiated the series, edited so many of the books and fostered all 56 publications since 2006.’

Andrew Podger

This festschrift celebrates the extensive contribution John Wanna has made to the research and practice of politics, policy and public administration.

It includes both personal acknowledgements of his work and substantial essays on the issues that he focused most closely upon during his academic career: budgeting and financial management, politics, and public policy and administration.

The essays address contemporary developments in public sector financial management in Australia and overseas, changing political processes in Queensland and the Commonwealth, and public governance and administration reform trajectories in Australia and internationally, including in China.

A common theme is the importance of linking research to practice, reflecting John Wanna’s own style and contribution. Essays include exploration of the interface between academia and practice, including from the perspective of practitioners.

The authors of the essays in this volume include eminent Australian and international scholars of public administration, experienced public service practitioners and younger scholars influenced by John Wanna.

Unequal Lives: Gender, Race and Class in the Western Pacific

Edited by Nicholas Bainton, Debra McDougall, Kalissa Alexeyeff and John Cox

Pacific Series

'Unequal Lives is an impressive collection ... [that] brilliantly illuminates all aspects of the multifaceted scholarship of Martha Macintyre, whose life and teaching are also highlighted in the commentaries, tributes and interview included in the volume.'

Robert J. Foster, Professor of Anthropology and Visual and Cultural Studies, Richard L. Turner Professor of Humanities, University of Rochester

As we move further into the twenty-first century, we are witnessing both the global extensification and local intensification of inequality. Unequal Lives deals with the particular dilemmas of inequality in the Western Pacific. The authors focus on four dimensions of inequality: the familiar triad of gender, race and class, and the often-neglected dimension of generation. Grounded in meticulous long-term ethnographic enquiry and deep awareness of the historical contingency of these configurations of inequality, this volume illustrates the multidimensional, multiscale and epistemic nature of contemporary inequality.

This collection is a major contribution to academic and political debates about the perverse effects of inequality, which now ranks among the greatest challenges of our time. The inspiration for this volume derives from the breadth and depth of Martha Macintyre's remarkable scholarship. The contributors celebrate Macintyre's groundbreaking work, which exemplifies the explanatory power, ethical force and pragmatism that ensures the relevance of anthropological research to the lives of others and to understanding the global condition.

Australian Dictionary of Biography, Volume 19: 1991–1995 (A–Z)

Edited by Melanie Nolan

970 pp | 248x153 mm
ISBN 9781760464127 (Print) $130.00
ISBN 9781760464134 (Online)

Volume 19 of the Australian Dictionary of Biography (ADB) contains concise biographies of individuals who died between 1991 and 1995. The first of two volumes for the 1990s, it presents a colourful montage of late twentieth-century Australian life, containing the biographies of significant and representative Australians.

The volume is still in the shadow of World War II with servicemen and women who enlisted young appearing, but these influences are dimming and there are now increasing numbers of non-white, non-male, non-privileged and non-straight subjects.

The 680 individuals recorded in volume 19 of the ADB include Wiradjuri midwife and Ngunnawal Elder Violet Bulger; Aboriginal rights activist, poet, playwright and artist Kevin Gilbert; and Torres Strait Islander community leader and land rights campaigner Eddie Mabo. HIV/AIDS child activists Tony Lovegrove and Eve Van Grafhorst have entries, as does conductor Stuart Challender, 'the first Australian celebrity to go public' about his HIV/AIDS condition in 1991.

The arts are, as always, well-represented, including writers Frank Hardy, Mary Durack and Nene Gare, actors Frank Thring and Leonard Teale and arts patron Ian Potter. We are beginning to see the effects of the steep rise in postwar immigration flow through to the ADB. Artist Joseph Stanislaw Ostoja-Kotkowski was born in Poland. Pilar Moreno de Otaegui, co-founded the Spanish Club of Sydney. Chinese restaurateur and community leader Ming Poon (Dick) Low migrated to Victoria in 1953.

Often we have a dearth of information about the domestic lives of our subjects; politician Olive Zakharov, however, bravely disclosed at the Victorian launch of the federal government's campaign to Stop Violence Against Women in 1993 that she was a survivor of domestic violence in her second marriage.

Take a dip into the many fascinating lives of the Australian Dictionary of Biography.
